Design Your Own Propaganda War Poster

Drawing from what you have learned, and the poster examples you have seen in class, design a propaganda poster that could have been used by one of the major powers in World War II. Your poster should represent the interests of a single country or alliance, and should have a clear message that matches those interests (a poster designed to be from the point of view of the British would be anti-Nazi, for example). It should be clear which country you are representing with your poster (for example, a poster designed to be from the point of view of the United States could feature the word “America”, or the American flag). Each individual student should submit their own poster, and it should be fully colored.
